An Important Message for Naperville Little League Players with birthdates 5/1/06 through 8/31/06

Little League International has instituted some age changes that specifically affect players born between 5/1/06 through 8/31/06. In Little League International age terms, these players have two more years of little league baseball eligibility. For the 2017 season, in Little League International age terms, these players are considered 11 year olds and for the 2018 season, they will be considered 12 year olds.

NLLB would like to give these players a choice this year (2017) of whether to play AA/Supreme or AAA/Majors. Please understand, the following year (2018), these players must play AAA/Majors.

If your youngster was born between 5/1/06 and 8/31/06, below are some scenarios that can come into play this year:

If you have a supreme player from the 2016 season, they can:

1. Stay with their supreme team, no need to tryout
2. Tryout for a Majors team, but if they do not make it, they have the option to
   A. Stay with their supreme team
   B. Play AA
   C. Play AAA

If you have a AA player from the 2016 season, they can:

A. Tryout for a Majors team or a Supreme team or BOTH (but, only play on one team or the other)
B. Play AA
C. Play AAA

Finally, when it comes to 2017 All Star teams (District Teams), regardless of where your player decided to play (Supreme/AA or Majors/AAA), he/she will be considered 11 years of age (Little League International) for the 2017 season, therefore, this is the All Star age they are eligible.
